Animal Services

The TW Hicks self leveling polyurethane concrete decorative system is a two layer floor system. The first layer consists of a self-leveling, medium to heavy duty, solid color, three component, cementitious polyurethane concrete. The second layer is a pigmented or clear base coat broadcast with multicolored vinyl flakes or colored quartz and sealed with selected top coats. The system provides an aesthetic, easy to clean, smooth surface, durable, impermeable finish with superior mechanical and chemical resistance. Surface texture can be customized to meet aesthetic and slip resistance requirements.

Where To Use

- Animal care and research labs
- Veterinarian clinics
- City animal shelters
- Washrooms

Advantages

- A seamless surface that is easy to clean and maintain
- Can be applied over partially cured concrete slabs (<10% moisture); a full 28-day cure time is not necessary
- High abrasion and impact resistance
- Optional integral base and curbs can be installed without seams or joints
